Real data. True understanding. Big impact.

Susan Mathews, who has been a part of the finance team since 2019 and led the contract division since 2022, leverages her many years of leadership skills and expertise as she guides her team to success.

Susan enjoys offering guidance while working through a project rather than dictating how to get to the final goal. She strives for open communication and collaboration to create a productive, no judgement work environment. "There are many ways to the same result, and we all can learn something as we find our way there."

"There is always room for improvement, however, discovery of how the processes and baselines were decided initially will set you up for success."

"Understand your audience and adjust messaging accordingly. Working in Finance and Contracts, details matter, however, depending on who the information is being presented to, it is important to know how they are going to internalize or utilize it."
